D*sign Week 2023	3
Program Overview	3

D*sign Week 2023

The line is shaky and the marker empty; the screen might be cracked and glitchy, but something is taking shape, so we keep exploring... We are interested in printing, distributing & publishing in autonomous ways. Our approach is self-reflective and embedded in the process of creating. We want to appropriate the tools and share our knowledge for common learning.

The second first edition of the d*sign week, is a gathering dedicated to experimental and independent design practices. The program includes topics like explorative printing, zine making and independent design tools, as well as hybrid forms of publishing on the web, open licenses, copyleft and collective forms of authorship.
